Denmark-Norway, The Netherlands and The Wider World

Call for Papers (abstracts) for Temp 20

For centuries, The Netherlands was one of the most influential trading partners of the dual kingdom of Denmark-Norway, thereby forming a significant entrepôt between the Nordic empire and the wider global world. Temp's vol. 20 will be a special issue dedicated to stories, connections and links between Denmark-Norway, The Netherlands and the wider world. We envision these interconnecting spheres as important nodes in historically contingent networks of far flung historical significance. In this context we welcome submissions dealing with connections spanning the Dutch colonial presence around the globe, as well as China and Japan, influencing also Denmark-Norway.

While trade was a central cornerstone of these global connections, this theme issue takes just as much interest in the international labour migration ranging from low-paid maids and common sailors to highly specialized artists, merchants and civil servants. Within the context of assessing impact between Denmark-Norway, The Netherlands and the wider world, submissions are welcomed to include topics such as, but not exclusively, citizenship, trade, transfers of know-how and technology, production, power politics, network configuration, ideas, identity formation.

All relevant scholarly traditions and topics are welcome. We particularly welcome contributions that seek to expand our understanding of topics and traditions in history through the use of other disciplinary backgrounds.
